In The Dark

Artist: Northern Trails
Music & lyrics: Thomas Isberg

Lungs in the dark, I can hear them.
Warm air passing through makes my skin burn.
Into my eyes rays so beautiful.
You were here through the night. Now the dawn cries.

I can't lie I want you to stay,
but honey I can't break the light.
I can't break the light.
I'm tired of passing by in the grey,
but honey I can't break the light.
I must perish in the shadows.

Wild, like a beast, I attacked them.
No sense in the world could ease my hunger.
But you stood there proud like a beacon in the night.
I felt paralyzed. Now I reach out.

I can't lie I want you to stay,
but honey I can't break the light.
I can't break the light.
I'm tired of passing by in the grey,
but honey I can't break the light.
I must perish in the shadows.

Falling down. Falling down.
Falling down. Falling down the well into the cold and damp.
Falling down. Falling down.
Falling down.

I can't lie I want you to stay,
but honey I can't break the light.
I can't break the light.
I'm tired of passing by in the grey,
but honey I can't break the light.
I must perish in the shadows.

Come, I want you to stay,
but honey I can't break the light.
I can't break the light.
I'm tired of passing by in the grey,
but honey I can't break the light.
I must perish in the shadows.
